Scholarship Application

Preface

Owing to an anonymous gift to the Erasmus Academy in the amount of one thousand dollars to support this Fall, 2018 course in the classics, the Admissions Office is able to offer ten scholarships in the amount of one hundred dollars each to qualified applicants. This scholarship would be used to reduce the expense of enrolling in this Classical Greek course beginning September 6, 2018. It will be granted to the first ten qualified students applying for the scholarship.

Qualifications

Any individual may apply for this scholarship by being a student of the classics: Latin or Greek language or literature; Roman and/or Greek history, archaeology and civilization, etc. One may also qualify by being a student in any field of the humanities, for which taking this course in ancient Greek literature would be beneficial. An applicant may be a college, graduate, secondary school student, or other adult.

Application

1. In the space provided, please state the schools, colleges, universities, and other institutions you have attended and from which you have received degrees.

2. If currently a degree candidate at an institution, please give the name of the school and degree program.

3. Please describe briefly your areas of study and your current focus.

4. Write in a few sentences how enrolling in Readings in Herodotus would benefit your current studies or enhance your academic career.

5. If you have financial constraints motivating you to apply for this scholarship, you may cite them here. Note that this is optional; you do not need to supply this information to be considered for this scholarship.
