French for Reading *Online
May 20 – July 11, 2019 (8 weeks)

Instructor: Mr. Rivière

Purpose

This intensive course is designed for graduate students preparing to take the French proficiency exams for master and doctoral programs, and for persons needing to conduct research in the language. It is also open to college students, adults or motivated high school students desiring to read and begin speaking in French. This course provides a thorough presentation of French grammar and methods for reading, comprehending, and translating from French to English. It includes extensive practice in reading, with sources drawn from literature, history, philosophy, music, religion, art, archaeology, current events and other examples of expository prose. No previous knowledge of the language is required. The objective of the course, approximating a year of college instruction, is to bring the student to an intermediate reading level, enabling him or her to read modern scholarly articles and to converse in French.

Course Structure

As a distance learning course, students may take this class from any location or from the convenience of their home. They will need to have access to the Internet. The course meets in real time: students log on at specific times and are expected to attend all the scheduled sessions. Each participates in the class by listening and speaking, translating and posing questions. Assignments are emailed to the Instructor. The 8-week course meets two times a week (Mondays and Thursdays), 6:15 pm-9:15 pm EST; it comprises 48 hours of instruction. Each 3-hour session includes grammar, strategies for analyzing French sentences, vocabulary review, conversation exercises, and sight-reading. Presuming 4 hours of outside preparation for each hour in class, 30 hours (6 + 24) a week should be available for study.
